JUST PUBLISHED

The False Gods

By GEORGE HORACE LORIMER, Author of "Letters from a Self-Made Merchant to His Son." Illustrated by J. C. Leyendecker. 12mo, cloth, $1.25.

A story of mystery and a clever satire on "The Man With the Muck Rake." The remarkable adventure of a newspaper reporter who investigates the workings of a society of Egyptologists. It is a weird tale told with great dramatic effect.

In the Shadow

By HENRY C. ROWLAND, Author of "The Mountain of Fears." 12mo, cloth, $1.50.

A powerful presentation in the form of a romance of a subject much discussed at the moment—the negro problem. Into a very readable love story Dr. Rowland has woven a keen analysis of the character of the negro, his possibilities and limitations. A novel of commanding interest.

ARNOLD DALY

E. H. SOTHERN

"The plot of The House of a Thousand Candles is original and strong in dramatic conception, developed with ever growing interest to a striking climax, and the book is, I think, rich material for a stirring play."

JULIA MARLOWE

"The nuances of each episode Meredith Nicholson's dramatic sense grasps instantly and portrays with perfect artistic simplicity. More than any other attribute this is what will make a strong play of the book."

MRS. LESLIE CARTER

"Rarely have I found a story more absorbing than The House of a Thousand Candles. The book should make an excellent play."

BLANCHE BATES

"I enjoyed The House of a Thousand Candles because of the Americanism of its characters, plot and scenes. It is a strong story, admirably told."

ARNOLD DALY

"The man who buys The House of a Thousand Candles has a gold mine of entertainment. Mentally, every page is brisk and bracing."

DAVID WARFIELD

"The vivid dramatic quality of The House of a Thousand Candles, combined with its romantic adventure, makes the story one of the most interesting I have read."

MARGARET ANGLIN

"If you are looking for a good story to make you forget a rainy day or cruel friends, read The House of a Thousand Candles. It is entertaining, absorbing, compelling."

THE GLORY SEEKERS

The Romance of Would-Be Founders of Empire in the Early Days of the Southwest. By William Horace Brown.

A BOOK of true stories that is more exciting and interesting than most of the novels of adventure now being published. This is a case where truth is really stranger than fiction, and it is safe to say that few of us nowadays realize what a wealth of romance is to be found in the history of the old Southwest. Certainly there were never more dashing adventurers than the turbulent freebooters who became notorious as the leaders of filibustering expeditions into this region. The book is attractive in appearance, and an unusual feature is the illustrative initials by W. J. Enright.

NICANOR TELLER OF TALES

A STORY OF ROMAN BRITAIN

"NICANOR

N the story-teller, was a son of Rathumus, the wood-cutter, who lived in Britain when the island was ruled by the Romans. And upon Nicanor fell the mantle of Melchior, his grandsire, the great teller of tales. So Nicanor went into the world, and men and women forgot everything in listening to the spell of his voice. But she who was most bewitched was Varia, the daughter of a Roman lord, who forgot that Nicanor was a slave. And then there came Eldris, also a slave, who loved Nicanor far better than he knew. Of these two, the lord's daughter and the one who went in chains, and of Nicanor's life and deeds is the story—a tale of the kind once told in sagas and ballads of a greater day."

It can be seen that "Nicanor" is a true romance, and as such it is earnestly commended to those who would like to forget for an hour or so the hard, commercial age in which we live. It is a beautiful piece of book-making, enriched with borders, initials, and headpieces, and with five brilliant pictures in full color. It is a splendid example of the decorated fiction which A. C. McClurg & Co. have made a feature—a veritable gift book at the price of a regular novel.

NOTES IN SEASON.

BRENTANO'S have just issued a new edition of "The Picture of Dorian Gray," by Oscar Wilde, uniform with their edition of the author's "Intentions."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will publish at the end of the summer the long-awaited illustrated edition of "Don Quixote." The many drawings are by Daniel Vierge, the late Spanish draughtsman, who spent seven years upon the pictures, completing the series a year before his recent death. The text of the forthcoming volume is to be that of Shelton, the Elizabethan translator.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready "The False Gods," by George Horace Lorimer, author of "Letters from a Self-Made Merchant to His Son," etc., a story of mystery in which a newspaper reporter investigates the workings of a society of Egyptologists, being a clever satire on "the man with the muck rake;" also, Dr. Henry C. Rowland's new novel, "In the Shadow," which is said to go deeply into the race problem, the chief character in the story being a negro who has every advantage of wealth and education and is admitted into the best society in England, and falls in love with a beautiful American girl.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY have just brought out "Huntington, Jr.," by Edward Clary Root, the romance of a typical American who fights his battles alone and wins by the sheer force of his personality. They will publish next month "By Wit of Woman," a story dealing with modern political intrigue, by Arthur W. Marchmont, with illustrations by Frank T. Merrill; also, "Eediotic Etiquette," by Gideon Wurdz, author of "The Foolish Dictionary," a satire on the over-serious books on the same subject, giving complete rules of deportment for afternoon teas, proposals, bargain counters and all the familiar contingencies of modern social life.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY will publish on the 25th inst. "Napoleon," forming the ninth volume of the Cambridge Modern History, which promises to be one of the most interesting, valuable and pertinent of the volumes that will make up this work. They will publish shortly Professor Forest Ray Moulton's "Introduction to Astronomy;" "The Sin of George Warrener," a new story by Miss Marie Van Vorst, a study of life and manners among a circle of people in a suburban town; also, "The Fool Errant," the eighth volume of the limited large paper edition of the works of Maurice Hewlett, which will be completed with the issue of the tenth volume in June.

A. S. BARNES & Co. will publish early next month "Mr. Pratt," by Joseph C. Lincoln, the story of a clam digger who is confronted by two Wall Street men and their valet who wish to lead the "natural life" and hired by them to achieve it—with astonishing results; "The Ancient Miracle, a Romance of the Northern Wilderness," by Jane Grosvenor Cooke, a story full of the mystery and charm of a great forest and the love of a great hearted people; "The Voice of the Street," by Ernest Poole, a story of temptation and conflict, of love and self-sacrifice, and of the feverish pulse of the metropolis ruled by the fever of chance; also, a story of mystery and adventure by Emerson G. Taylor, entitled "The Upper Hand."

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

The prices of net books published under the rules of the American Publishers' Association are preceded in this list by a double asterisk , and the word net follows the price. The prices of fiction (not net) published under the rules are preceded by a dagger †. The prices of net books not covered by the rules, whether published by members of the American Publishers' Association or not, are preceded by a single asterisk, and the word net follows the price.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. c. after the date indicates that the book is copyrighted; if the copyright date differs from the imprint date, the year of copyright is added. Books of foreign origin of which the edition (annotated, illustrated, etc.) is entered as copyright, are marked c. ed.; translations, c. tr.; n. p., in place of price, indicates that the publisher makes no price, either net or retail, and quotes prices to the trade only upon application.

Author is member of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. It is hardly more than ten years ago that the first applications of great water powers to the industrial wants of distant cities were made, and now electrical supply from water power transmitted from varying distances is distributed in more than fifty cities of North America. The author describes the various water power systems, and goes into technical details concerning methods, appliances and cost.

Alexander, Eleanor. The lady of the well. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1906. 5+328 p. D. cl., *$1.50.

Tale of the 13th century when the conflict between Guelfs and Ghibellines was raging, and Frederick II., grandson of Frederick Barbarossa, was emperor of the Holy Roman Empire. A wandering troubadour gained the favor of a beautiful woman of noble family, whose face he had seen mirrored in the well. He became involved with her fortunes as her declared lover, was drawn by conflicting motives to succor a captive Saracen maid and also to love a promised nun. Pictures the rude passions of the age strangely intermixed with poetic fervor and chivalrous love. By the author of "The rambling rector."

Dr. Blochmann is professor of chemistry in the University of Königsberg, Prussia; Dr. Meisnest is instructor in German in the University of Wisconsin. The lectures were delivered in 1895 and 1897, and first appeared in Germany in 1899. The table of atomic weights at the close has been changed to correspond with the international atomic weights for 1905. So many authoritative scientific works are written in German that scientific German has become a necessary study in high-schools and colleges.

Bradford, Gamaliel, jr. Between two masters. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. [Ap.] c. 6+336 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A young graduate of Harvard, of great business ability, working for a millionaire uncle becomes convinced that present business methods are not honest or noble, and that money made by such methods is "tainted." He leaves his uncle, who, although a great capitalist, has a very intelligent grasp of all sides of the complicated ethics of the modern business world, and starts to help men rather than to rule them and use them. Three love stories brighten the presentation of the business problems.

Compiler is reference librarian John Crerar Library, Chicago. This bibliography does not purport to cover all the books upon municipal government, but includes merely a selected list of such material as particularly bears upon the structure of city government. Charters of all the most important cities and recent charters of some small cities are listed, as well as important treatises, special reports and investigations. Full bibliographical details have not been attempted. Initials in the margins indicate the Chicago libraries in which the titles may be found. The list fills 41 pages and is classified; with an author index appended.

Brown, W. Horace. The glory seekers: the romance of would-be founders of empire in the early days of the great Southwest; with 16 por. and 16 illustrative initials. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1906. c. 11+347 p. D. buckram, $1.50 net.

"This is mainly," says the author, "the story of men, who standing on the rugged confines of civilization in America at an early period of our national life, sought distinction by attempting to hitch their wagons to the star of empire. In the tales of early American adventure we encounter some picturesque characters, and frequently have fairly to gasp for breath at the audacity of their schemes. Especially is this true of those daring spirits who operated in the Southwest, that grand theatre of historic melodrama—of perilous exploits, projects of conquest, and dreams of sovereignty." Wilkinson and Burr, Philip Nolan, George Rogers Clark, Zebulon Pike, and General Gaines are among those whose adventures are related.

Burgess, Gelett. A little sister of destiny. Bost., Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1906. [Ap.] c. '05, '06. 5+259 p. D. cl., $1.50.

A sentimental, enthusiastic girl, left sole heir to millions in California real estate, sheep, cattle, wheat, wines, mines and railroads, tires of society life. She comes to New York and plays fairy godmother in about eight cases, of which the details make romantic stories. She meets a man as unselfish as herself, who helps her in her quixotic adventures, and finally agrees to manage the wealth she finds so burdensome.

Butler, Ellis Parker. Pigs is pigs; il. by Will Crawford. N. Y., McClure, Phillips & Co., 1906. [Mr.] c. 3+37 p. D. cl., $50 c.

The laughable series of events recorded in this little sketch grows out of a dispute by Mr. Morehouse with the Interurban Express Company about express charges on two guinea-pigs, pets of his little boy. The question is, are they "pets or pigs;" if "pets" the rate is much lower than for pigs. Mike Flannery, the agent, decides they are pigs, and refuses to deliver the little animals until paid the greater rate. The higher authorities are appealed to, a succession of funny letters coming from all sides. In the meantime the pigs increase at an alarming rate, and an immense bill is run up for feeding them. A playful satire on the ways of express companies.

Little Joan Chantry, an Anglo-Indian orphan, comes to England in her ninth year to live the rest of her young life with her great-uncle and aunt at the Bridge house, in the little Devon village of Bury Wotton. She brings with her her Indian ayah, the two seeming strangely out of place in the dull, silent old house. Shortly afterwards Joan goes to Germany to school, where she remains for nine years, coming again to the Bridge house, which she finds unchanged. There is a mystery in it which shadows her life, and is left unexplained to the end.

Tempest Ladon, after the death of his young wife, shuts himself up in his estate in the west of England for twenty-five years. Emerging from such gloomy associations his son is suddenly launched into London society and speedily falls in love with and marries a beautiful girl, who has been reared in an atmosphere of careless bohemianism. Deeply loving her husband she is taken to his forbidding house, where a contest between discordant natures ensues. The old father, incurably ill, is insanely jealous of his beautiful daughter-in-law, and slowly and surely drags her into a crime which must darken her whole life.

In "All sorts and conditions of men" Walter Besant presented his ideal of a People's Palace for the neglected poor. This author's leading thought is exactly an opposite ideal. She works out the unusual plan of building a temple for the neglected rich. A clever, vain and rather frivolous woman, when near death, is led to think seriously of her past life and of the life to come. She leaves her wealth to her nephew on condition that he devotes himself to saving the souls of the rich. He carries out her plans, his revivals becoming quite the fashion, and seeming to affect seriously the class for whom they are planned.

Green room (The) book; or, who's who on the stage: an annual biographical record of the dramatic, musical and variety world, 1906. [1st year;] ed. by Bampton Hunt. N. Y., F: Warne & Co., [1906.] 452 p. por. D. limp cl., $1.50 net.

Until the appearance of this volume there was no recognized annual publication devoted exclusively to the personages connected with the stage. Although an English publication it contains many American names. It promises next season to be strictly international. It contains not only biographies of actors and actresses, in the strict meaning of the phrase, but also notices of many of the principal variety artists, dramatists, musical composers, conductors, dramatic and musical critics, managers, proprietors, and dramatic and musical agents of Great Britain, the Continent and America. Special features are: A list of actresses who married into the peerage and of titled Englishmen who married actresses; Plays produced at London theatres in English, French and German between 1904-1906; "Green room gleanings," interesting facts of 1905; The licensing of the London theatres, a list of theatres, music halls, etc., of Great Britain and Ireland, etc.

These outlines were prepared for the students taking the laboratory course in physiology at the University of Cincinnati. They are so arranged that they may be given as a separate course, or in connection with lectures. The work has been divided into three parts, viz.: (1) Metabolism, including digestion, respiration and circulation; (2) Nerve-muscle physiology, and (3) Central nervous system and the sense organs. Each part can be presented independent of the other, but the order given seems best to prepare the student for the part which follows. Both author and editor belong to the University of Cincinnati. The one is professor of biology, the other of physiology.

The Independent has published during the last four years about seventy-five autobiographies of undistinguished American men and women. The aim of each autobiography was to typify the life of the average worker in some particular vocation, and to make each story the genuine experience of a real person. From this list have been selected the sixteen lives presented in this volume as most representative. Thus we have the story of the butcher, the sweat-shop worker, the boot-black, the push-cart peddler, the dressmaker, the nurse girl, the cook, the editor, the butler, etc. The lives represent also the five great races of mankind.

A little girl with a sweet, winning face is given in exchange for some berries a Spanish "lucky piece" by a boy who sees her as he goes past in the stage. Years later some rich New Yorkers with an only daughter are spending the summer in their Adirondack camp. The girl's unaccepted lover is also there, and a mountain guide who has educated himself to be engineer after his mother and sister were taken from him. A double love story is worked out in which jealousy and ambition play their part, and the "lucky piece" appears again to clear away misunderstandings and mysteries.

The author believes there is no death; there are no dead. What we call death is one step only in life's progression, in the march of evolution, in which neither identity nor individuality is lost, and that life and labor continue as the soul works towards perfection. The so-called dead live here among and about us, and if one will make the requisite conditions one can talk with those who are separated from the body. By the help of a medium the author has for years held communication with the dead. He here discloses his methods and transmits messages from the spirit world concerning the future life. Condemns the attitude and the teachings of theology.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

OSCAR WILDE died an undischarged bankrupt, but his executor announces that, since Wilde's death, the sale of his books, (notably "De Profundis," which the Putnams published in this country not long since,) has enabled him to pay his English creditors in full. The French creditors, it is believed, will be paid from the profits to be secured from a forthcoming uniform edition of his works.

HERBERT G. WELLS, author of "The Time Machine," "When the Sleeper Wakes," "Anticipations," "The Making of Man," and other notable books, arrived in New York on April 1. During a tour of seven weeks he will visit Boston, Washington, Niagara, Pittsburg, Chicago and Oneida, N. Y. He will direct his attention chiefly to the economic phases of American mind and will, writing a series of letters to the Tribune, London, which will appear also in book form.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

BEGINNING with the September issue an American edition of the London Magazine, another of the Harmsworth publications, will be brought out from their office at 224 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Poet Lore, in order to stimulate the production of contemporary poetry, will pay $100 for the best poem containing not less than four nor more than sixty-four lines, received by June 30. No poem will be considered if it has previously appeared in print either as a whole or in part.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

APRIL 21, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE SAN FRANCISCO DISASTER.

As we go to press the news of the shocking disaster in San Francisco, Cal., through the earthquake on the 18th inst., grows more appalling rather than more hopeful. Of course, owing to the fact that all telegraphic communication has been interrupted, large allowances must be made for the unfortunate hysterical and sensational reports that are bound to follow upon every great calamity. So far all reports, however, agree that the section of the city from the Bay west to Franklin Street, and from Harrison Street north to Pacific Street, practically including the whole business section, has suffered the most, and fears are entertained that what has not been actually obliterated has been so badly crippled that it may take months, if not years, for its entire recovery.

If the reports are true, the booktrade at the "Golden Gate" will have received a heavy blow, because so far as we recall them the more important members of the trade were nearly all settled in this ill-fated section. On Market Street are located the Whitaker & Ray Co., the Lorimer Book Co., H. C. Holmes, R. C. Ross, F. D. Brandon, The Emporium, Jennings & Graham and the American Tract Society. On Post Street are A. M. Robertson, A. B. Pierson, R. J. Machen and Elder & Shepard. On Geary Street are Daly & Curran, the San Francisco News Company and Edward Wesson. On Sansome Street are Cunningham, Curtiss & Welsh. On Grant Avenue are the Presbyterian Board of Publication and the New Book Store, (L. H. Cary.) Besides these are J. H. King on McAllister Street; King Brothers on Fourth Street; R. J. Taussig on Main Street; Payot, Upham & Co. and R. C. Harrison on Pine Street; De Witt & Snelling on Stockton Street; and R. E. Cowan on Tread Avenue. Then the collections of the Sutro Library and of the Mercantile Library are also exposed to danger from fire. The valuable Bancroft collection, being considerably outside the affected zone and in an isolated building, is very likely safe. The Public Library, located in the City Hall, which is reported to have been entirely destroyed, is no doubt also doomed.

The disaster has also involved many outlying points, and many cities and scores of towns and villages within a hundred miles of San Francisco have suffered incalculable loss. Among others Stanford University is reported to be completely demolished, with the exception of one building. Shipping in every direction is said to be paralyzed and commerce with the Sandwich Islands and our other Pacific possessions is for the moment suspended.

We dare not dwell on the possibilities of destruction through this upheaval of the natural forces and the attending ravages through fire which now is threatening an area of some twelve square miles. We can only hope that when order is restored that the damage may be repaired in a shorter time than seems possible now to us at the other end of the continent. In the work of recovery there will be many helping hands extended to our suffering brethren, not only from our own country, but from all the world wherever a sympathetic heart beats in a human breast. That is a comfort in present time of trouble and will be a material help in the future.

THE circular letter from the post-office addressed to periodical publishers, notifying them that "pages or forms inserted in a periodical publication from which they are intended to be detached for some secondary use by the recipient in ordering goods advertised, or furnishing information to the publisher or advertiser, or for any other purpose, are not, under an opinion of the Assistant Attorney-General for the Post-Office Department, permanent constituent parts of the publication, and may not be mailed at the second-class rates of postage," raises the question whether the printing of a coupon in the corner of an advertising page will subject periodicals in which such matter is printed to third-class rates. If the decision does not mean this, but refers only to complete pages or perforated portions, it is not new, being already covered in the postal instructions to publishers; if it does mean this it will work a considerable revolution in the methods of doing business. We learn from the New York Post-Office that in view of the doubt on this point it has addressed a request for further instructions from Washington, and that pending the receipt of such further instructions periodicals containing the corner coupon unperforated will not be "held up."

IN respect to Judge Wright's decision that extra-territorial notice of copyright, e.g., a notice on an English authorized edition of an American book is not required to protect American copyright, a question arises. What would be the effect of innocent use by an American publisher of material taken in good faith from the English edition, especially where the American original edition, manufactured in this country, had been withheld temporarily from general sale? The question would seem to be easily answered. If such utilization of material goes beyond what the courts construe to be "fair use," the burden would be upon the American user to learn in advance, by the usual inquiry at the Copyright Office at Washington, whether such work is copyright in America. This is a simple application of the principle that property should not be used by another person without the owner's consent; and if the would-be user does not take pains to find out who is the owner, and obtain his consent, he invites the consequences. Judge Wright's decision is perhaps more commendable for its outcome than for its reasoning, particularly as in one place he suggests that by the misuse of the copyright notice extra-territorially to cover material included beyond that actually copyrighted in the United States, the offender would be subject to penalty—an untenable contradiction of his previous reason. The decision itself is, we believe, wholesome, and in the general interest of publishers, and it is possible, we understand, that partly on this ground it may be decided not to press an appeal.

It is fair to point out that this victory for the Merriam interests has no bearing whatever on the case pending in Boston, in which is in question the use of the word "Webster" in relation with the dictionaries by others than the Merriam house. Testimony has been taken in that matter, but no decision has been reached, and we believe that the case is still to be argued on the main issue.

G. BERNARD SHAW SUES PUBLISHERS.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW has begun a suit in the New York Supreme Court to recover from Melville E. Stone, Jr., and Herbert S. Stone $25,000 damages for alleged wrongful detention of the copyrights on "Plays Pleasant and Unpleasant," "Three Plays for Puritans" and certain others of his books. Shaw also wants an accounting of the royalties.

Shaw says in his complaint that on December 5, 1897, he granted to Grant Richards, of London, a five-year license for the publication of the two volumes of "Plays Pleasant and Unpleasant." These volumes included "Candida," "You Never Can Tell," "Philanderer," "Mrs. Warren's Profession," "Arms and the Man," and "Widowers' Houses."

Under the license agreement Shaw was to get a royalty of 23½ cents on every copy sold, and the books were to be copyrighted in his favor.

By Shaw's consent, Richards transferred the license to Herbert S. Stone & Co. on November 2, 1898, and Herbert S. Stone & Co. took out copyrights on the books. These copyrights, he says, have never been transferred to him, according to the original agreement. He values the copyrights at many thousands of dollars, and alleges that Herbert S. Stone & Co. have wrongfully transferred them to Fox, Duffield & Co., who succeeded to the book publishing part of Herbert S. Stone & Co.'s business.

The five-years' license expired three years ago, Shaw says, and therefore neither Herbert S. Stone & Co. nor Fox, Duffield & Co. should be permitted to print or publish "Plays Pleasant and Unpleasant."

Shaw makes practically the same allegations in relation to other volumes of his plays, including "Three Plays for Puritans," "The Devil's Disciple," "Cesar and Cleopatra" and "Captain Brassbound's Conversion." The other volumes included "The Perfect Wagnerite" and "Cashel Byron's Profession." The copyrights on these works have also been wrongfully withheld from him, Shaw says, although he has demanded them.

He declares that Herbert S. Stone & Co.'s action in assigning the copyrights to Fox, Duffield & Co. was fraudulent and wrongful. He also asks for an accounting of the royalties on his books, saying that the statements of royalties rendered him were incomplete and vague and that thousands of dollars are still due him from this source. Every day that he is deprived of his copyrights is worth $200 to him, he says, in addition to the $25,000 damages which he demands.

Shaw's counsel, Sackett, has applied to the court for an order permitting Fox, Duffield & Co. to be joined as party defendants, and for an injunction restraining them or Herbert S. Stone & Co. from continuing the publication of his works or transferring the copyrights to other persons. The defendants have retained counsel in the matter and an interesting controversy may be expected. Both firms naturally deny any fraudulent or wrongful acts and are prepared to support their claims.

BOCCACCIO BARRED IN OHIO.

EDWARD STIEFEL, the president and general manager of the Queen City Book Company, at 620 Vine Street, Cincinnati, O., was indicted on October 6, 1904, by the Grand Jury of the District Court of the United States, Western Division of the Southern District of Ohio, for violating Section 3893 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in sending a copy of Boccaccio's "Decameron" by express from Cincinnati to Crawfordsville, Ind.

The section violated reads as follows: "Unlawful to deposit with any express company or other common carrier, for carriage from one State or Territory or the District of Columbia to any other State or Territory or the District of Columbia, any obscene, etc., . . . and any person who shall knowingly deposit or cause to be deposited with . . . or who shall take from . . . for each offense not more than $5000 or hard labor not more than five years, or both."

By act of August 28, 1894, there is a similar prohibition against importation of such matter from foreign countries.

The case came up for trial on April 10, Mr. Stiefel bringing forward as witnesses to testify in his favor that the book is a classic a well-known judge of Cincinnati, a member of the Cincinnati Board of Education and an editor of the leading Cincinnati newspaper. Mr. Stiefel also produced for evidence a catalogue of the Cincinnati Public Library and a catalogue of the Mercantile Library, in which the "Decameron" was listed. He also produced for evidence a large number of catalogues of the libraries of prominent persons, whose books were sold at public auction in New York and Boston; also catalogues from a large number of booksellers throughout the world, in which copies of the "Decameron" were listed.

With all this evidence, and the assistance of one of the best attorneys of Cincinnati, the jury, after one hour and fifteen minutes' discussion, returned a verdict of guilty and declared the "Decameron" to be an obscene, lewd and lascivious book of indecent character, particularly Novel 10 of the Third Day, and Novel 4 of the Fifth Day. The jury recommended mercy, and Mr. Stiefel was fined $5 and costs.

PFISTER'S SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

FRANK J. PFISTER, of the Pfister Bookbinding Co., Inc., at 145 East Twenty-fifth Street, New York City, celebrated his silver anniversary on the 19th inst., having entered business for himself on that date twenty-five years ago. Mr. Pfister was born in New York City on April 19, 1853, and is one of the direct descendants of Albrecht Pfister, the master-printer of Bamberg. After passing through the public schools, Pfister, at the age of seventeen, was apprenticed to William H. Hiltz, the bookbinder, and remained with him for a year. In 1871, still an apprentice, he entered the employ of Carroll & Sweetman, and remained with them until they sold out to Thomas Kelly, the publisher of Bibles. Mr. Pfister then finished his apprenticeship with Edward Walker & Son, and went to Philadelphia, where he was employed as a journeyman in several book binderies. Returning to New York he obtained a position in William Mathews's bindery, and later, from 1875 to 1880, was with R. W. Smith, of the Trow Printing Company. While working for the Neuman Brothers, Pfister bought out the plant of his old employer, Hiltz, and on his birthday, in 1881, in partnership with Louis L. Grunbacher, under the firm name of F. J. Pfister & Co., he began business on his own account. The partnership lasted ten years, when Grunbacher sold out his interest to General Robert Avery, and the business was incorporated under the laws of West Virginia as The F. J. Pfister Bookbinding Company. Becoming involved in the failure of the United States Book Company, the book-binding corporation, after an existence of nine months, was obliged to liquidate.

Mr. Pfister then began business on his own account, and, in connection with his book bindery, on Sixth Avenue, also conducted a bookstore. It was at this time, 1900-1903, that Mr. Pfister introduced pyrography in book decoration, producing some marvellously beautiful results.

In 1903, when the bookbinders' strike broke out, Mr. Pfister sold out his bookstore and started a partnership with William Launder under the firm name of the Launder & Pfister Bookbinding Co. After fifteen months Mr. Launder sold out his interest to his partner's daughter, Marion Pfister, and business has since then been continued under the firm name of Pfister Bookbinding Co., Inc., Frank J. Pfister being president, James P. Bolton, vice-president, and M. Pfister, secretary and treasurer. The specialty of the new firm is fine art and extra binding, a line of work in which they have achieved an excellent reputation. Mr. Pfister, though tried in many ways as few men are called upon to suffer, has always borne his burdens bravely, and has ever presented a cheerful and hopeful front to the world. Conscientious as a workman, generous as a competitor, helpful as a neighbor and loyal as a friend, Frank Pfister has always stood high in the estimation of his fellow men, many of whom on his anniversary day crowded about him to wish him many happy returns of the day, with "three cheers and a 'tiger.'"

A BIG PRINTING JOB.

FOR once a contract to do printing for a State has been completed on time—in fact, an hour ahead of time. The J. B. Lyon Printing Company, of Albany, N. Y., on the 16th inst. notified Senator Armstrong, chairman of the insurance investigating committee of the New York legislature, that the work of printing the report and testimony of that committee was finished.

The question of the printing of the testimony and the report of the committee last winter occupied the serious attention of the insurance committee after it had finished the taking of testimony. The Brandow Printing Company, which had the State printing contract, was charged with holding back the printed matter from the State for the purpose of making profit from private sales. As a result the Legislature passed a bill authorizing the committee to have 5000 sets of the testimony and report printed by some other company. The J. B. Lyon Company, of Albany, got the contract, the cost to be $2.62 a set for seven volumes to the State and $5 for the same set to the public.

The contract was awarded on the stipulation that the work would be completed at noon on April 16, or in just about eight days. The Lyon Company promised to have the work done on time, and with the blowing of whistles and ringing of bells in the entire Lyon plant at 11 o'clock on the morning of the 16th inst. the public was apprised that the work had been completed.

It is said to be one of the biggest tasks ever undertaken by a printer. The copy consisted of 10,000 pages, or 16,000,000 ems. In order to have the work completed on time the plant was run night and day. Three shifts of twenty-three machines were put to work and the plant was run also on Sundays.

FICTION IN DEMAND IN ENGLAND.

THE following novels have been most in demand in London during March:

The Mayor of Troy, by "Q."
The Way of the Spirit, by H. Rider Haggard.
The Triumphs of Eugene Valmont, by Robert Barr.
My Sword for Lafayette, by Max Pemberton.
Jimmy Quixot, by Tom Gallon.
Curayl, by Una L. Silberrad.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD'S RIGHT TO THE NAME LOTHROP.

IN our account of the issue of the suits pending against Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company, (THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, April 14, pp. 1172, 1173,) two errors occurred which seem of sufficient importance to warrant correction. In the first place, the firm of Lee & Shepard was not incorporated until August 12, 1904, six months after the Lothrop Publishing Company made an assignment. Our account made it appear as though the assignment of the one company and the incorporation of the other company were made on the same day.

Again, in the statement, "The suit regarding the imprint was also directed against nearly all the leading booksellers of the country," the word country, as any careful reader will have suspected, should have been city, meaning Boston, in which some seven leading concerns were named as defendants, to each of whom Lothrop, Lee & Shepard Company promptly sent a letter guaranteeing protection against any loss that might accrue from handling their books.

BOOKTRADE ASSOCIATIONS.

CONVENTION OF NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF STATIONERS.

It is announced that the date for holding the convention of the National Association of Stationers and Manufacturers in New York City is fixed upon Tuesday, June 19, the majority of the organizations favoring the middle of June. It now remains for the trade in and around New York to make themselves equal to the occasion, and towards that end hospitality should be unconfined. The principal object of the visitors, naturally enough, will be to attend the convention and to have a good time; but they will also want to buy goods, so that the trade here must be doubly prepared. But, above all, let us give the visitors a royal welcome and the best kind of a time.

AMERICAN BOOKSELLERS' ASSOCIATION DINNER.

THE committee in charge of the sixth annual dinner of the American Booksellers' Association to be held at the Aldine Association, in New York City, on the evening of May 16, have received definite promises from the following speakers that they will address the association: Dr. Herbert Putnam, Librarian of Congress; F. Hopkinson Smith, whose name is too familiar to need further introduction; Rex E. Beach, the author of "The Spoilers," whose career thus far may be compared in its humorous vicissitudes with that of Mark Twain's early days; John W. Sargent, author of "Toasts for the Times," who is also an expert prestidigitateur, and J. Wallace Mackey, the ventriloquist, whose performances have on several occasions delighted the Booksellers' League. One or two other surprises are also in store for this entertainment. The souvenirs arranged for by the committee will also prove acceptable. All in all the dinner promises to be one of the most enjoyable ever provided by the booksellers of New York. As arrangements for seats must be made well in advance of the date of the dinner, the committee requests that applications may be made as soon as possible. Mr. Charles A. Burkhardt, with E. P. Dutton & Co., 31 West Twenty-third Street, New York; Harry F. Davis, Pittsburg, Pa.; A. Wessels, 43 East Nineteenth Street, New York; Charles E. Butler, with Brentano's, 5 Union Square, New York; A. Growoll, with THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, 298 Broadway, and others of the various committees are now prepared to book those who may wish to attend the dinner.

OBITUARY NOTES.

ARTHUR TURNURE, founder of The Art Age, The Art Interchange and Vogue, died on April 13 in New York City. Mr. Turnure was born in New York City in 1857 and was a graduate of Princeton. After leaving college he read law and was admitted to the bar. He did not practice long, but becoming interested in art as applied to the printing and publishing business started the paper called The Art Age, which introduced the art nouveau idea into the printing business. Later he abandoned The Art Age and started The Art Interchange. Selling that he was associated for some years with the art department of Harper & Brothers, from which he withdrew to establish, with the late Harry McVickar, the fashion journal Vogue, of which he was president and editor. He was one of the organizers and charter members of the Grolier Club.

RICHARD GARNETT, the English author and antiquary, died on April 13, in London. As a scholar, and still more as an author, Dr. Garnett's fame is connected with the British Museum, in which he passed the whole of his working life. Born February 27, 1835, in Lichfield, he was the son of an assistant keeper of the books in the museum. At the age of 16, after an education at the hands of private tutors, he entered the service of the museum. In 1890 he became Keeper of the Printed Books, having before that been Assistant Keeper and Superintendent of the Reading Room. In the period between he had acquired a marvellous learning in the bibliography of the museum, and he found time to publish about forty books, ranging from poetry to biography and bibliography. His first work was "Primula," a book of lyrics, which appeared in 1858; his last, except for some annotations of manuscripts, "Will Shakespere, Pedagogue and Poacher," (1902.) He was a liberal contributor to the "Encyclopædia Britannica," and the "Dictionary of National Biography," and was editor of "The International Library of Famous Literature." Among his professional writings are "Essays in Librarianship and Bibliography" and "Essays of an ex-Librarian." He was made a Companion of the Bath in 1895. In 1883 Edinburgh University made him an LL.D.

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

THE latest collection of English publishers' trade lists, with an index of some 150,000 references, entitled "The Reference Catalogue," published by J. Whitaker & Sons, of London, will be ready for delivery in June. The work, as usual, will be published in two specially and substantially bound volumes, and may be had in this country at the office of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY. As the number of copies to be issued is only just sufficient to meet the exact requirements of the trade, it is essential that early application should be made by booksellers desiring a copy.

THE CITY CLUB OF CHICAGO has published a "List of Titles on Municipal Government, with special reference to city charters and to local conditions in Chicago." The list has been prepared, at the request of the City Club of Chicago, for the Chicago Charter Convention, by Charles Harvey Brown, reference librarian at the John Crerar Library. The bibliography, according to the statement of the Library Committee—Joseph W. Hiner, Charles Edward Merriam and Aksel G. S. Josephson—"does not purport to cover all of the books upon municipal government, but includes merely a selected list of such material as particularly bears upon the structure of city government. It includes the charters of all the most important American cities and recent charters of a number of comparatively small cities, the most valuable treatises on municipal government and a number of special reports on investigations of city problems." While by no means all of the existing works have been cited, it is believed that the most important and reliable have been included. (52 p. 8°. pap., 10 c.)

CATALOGUES OF NEW AND SECOND-HAND BOOKS.—Dodd, Mead & Co., 372 Fifth Ave., New York, Bookplates. Twenty-third St., New York, General literature, etc. (No. 1, 857 titles.)—Ludwig Rosenthal, 16 Hildegardstr., Munich, Works by and on Shakespere, his times and his influence, including emblem books and Dances of Death. (No. 118, 603 titles.)

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HENRY HOLT & Co. will publish shortly "The Election of Senators," by George H. Haynes, author of "Representation in State Legislatures," a new volume in the American Public Problem Series.

G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY have just ready "Extra Dry, being the Further Adventures of the Water Wagon," by Bert Lester Taylor and W. C. Gibson, authors of "The Log of the Water Wagon."

THE splendid reception accorded to their series of the Romance Books has encouraged the J. B. Lippincott Company to increase it, and they will publish seven additional titles this year. The names of the volumes will be announced later.

J. HENRY LEA, South Freeport, Me., has just brought out a work on "Genealogical Research in England, Scotland and Ireland," based very largely on Mr. Lea's experiences. His work is a handbook for the student of the subject, containing concise directions for investigation in Great Britain, with tables of probate and other courts, map of jurisdiction, etc.

FOX, DUFFIELD & COMPANY have in preparation a new and cheaper edition of "Two Gentlemen in Touraine," by Richard Sudbury (Charles Gibson). It will be of a more convenient size than the original form of issue, which had decorative borders and double page illustrations, and will be known as The Automobile Edition. "The Book of Tea," by Okakura-Kakuzo, to be published in May, will have an introduction by John La Farge, to whom the volume is dedicated.

HARPER & BROTHERS announce a new novel by Justin Huntly McCarthy, author of "If I Were King," etc., in which he has taken as his theme the story of Joan of Arc. Around the well-known facts is constructed in his inimitable style a semi-historical romance of great dramatic interest. As is his usual custom, Mr. McCarthy has written both novel and dramatic version at the same time, and the play will be given next season by E. H. Sothorn and Julia Marlowe. The author has called his story "The Flower of France."

FREDERICK WARNE & Co. have secured for the American market Bartholomew's important dictionary of commerce, entitled "Atlas of the World's Commerce," a work of exceptional interest to every merchant. It consists of a series of maps with descriptive text and diagrams, showing imports, exports, commercial conditions and economic statistics of the countries of the world compiled from the latest official returns at the Edinburgh Geographical Institute. The work will be complete in twenty-two parts at twenty-five cents each.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. announce a little volume on "Science and Idealism" by Professor Hugo Münsterberg. It is the fashion with some present-day philosophers to take the whole life of reason as a practical scheme without any absolute value and dignity. Professor Münsterberg shows that, on the contrary, science itself must fall asunder if we ever consistently disbelieved in metaphysical ideals. Without the æsthetic and logical, the moral and religious values, our world would be simply a chaotic dream. In this volume the author attempts to reduce all ideals to one whose eternal character stands beyond a doubt.

THE CENTURY COMPANY have just ready a New Year's sermon by William Mills Ivins, which he entitles "The Soul of the People." The writer, who was Republican candidate for mayor of New York City, takes an optimistic view of the American people to-day. He points out their love of money and luxury and its far-reaching consequences, but he believes that "the moral care of the nation, and the mental care as well, is absolutely sound, and that the soul of the people is in no danger." He wants the progress to be in order through evolution, not revolution. His description of American life to-day, especially in large cities where immigration has brought about hitherto unprecedented conditions, is masterly and full of suggestion for earnest thought.

F. M. BUCKLES & COMPANY, New York City, will publish on May 15 a story of the Australian bush by Guy Boothby, entitled "The Race of Life." The hero, the son of a man who had been killed by a fall from his horse in the bush, lives with his widowed mother in Melbourne until his eighteenth year. He chafes at the work of a clerk and decides to try his fortunes in the bush. With a partner, found under exciting circumstances, he becomes owner of two cattle stations, and in a few years is counted among the successful Australian speculators. On a terrible stormy night he meets a young woman whose husband has been killed by lightning, and who is homeless. He takes her home and she becomes the good spirit of the ranch. Jealousy arises and the girl disappears. A wildly exciting story full of mystery at last accounts for the young woman's former career, which closely touches that of one of the partners. Australian life is realistically presented.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY will publish next month another book by Marietta Holley, entitled "Samantha vs. Josiah, or a Borrowed Automobile and What Came of It." As may be gathered from the title, Josiah Allen would insist upon borrowing an automobile, and naturally it led to all kinds of trouble. But the automobile was not the sum total of his troubles. His beloved and erstwhile practical Samantha took to believing in ghosts and the communication between bodies in this world and spirits in the next. Poor Josiah has his hands full and his head full when he tries to combat her various convictions. They will also publish this summer a noteworthy novel by the Spanish novelist, Emilia Pardo Bazan, who has been called the creator and protagonist of Spanish realism. The story, which is evolved from a most romantic period of French history, is entitled "The Mystery of the Lost Dauphin." The chapters contain many passages of great dramatic intensity.

KARL W. HIERSEMANN, Leipzig, has just ready the first part of a work entitled "Ancient Oriental Carpets," which forms a supplement and continuation to the important work on ancient oriental tapestry published during 1892 to 1896, under the direction of the Imperial and Royal Austrian Commercial Museum at Vienna. The new work, which is brought out under the auspices of the Imperial and Royal Austrian Museum of Art and Industry at Vienna, is edited by A. von Scala, the director of the museum, and will show on twenty-five plates, printed in from sixteen to eighteen colors, the most important oriental carpets discovered since 1896. The work is printed at the Hof- und Staatsdruckerei at Vienna, and will be completed in two years at the rate of two parts each year. The work will have an introduction by Dr. W. Bode, the director of the Kaiser Friedrich Museum at Berlin, who is universally recognized as the best living authority on oriental tapestry.

E. P. DUTTON & COMPANY are publishing a sumptuous book on "Axel Herman Haig and His Work," illustrated from his etchings, pencil drawings and water colors, with a biography and a descriptive catalogue of his etched works by E. A. Armstrong. The consent of Mr. Dunthorne, who has been Mr. Haig's publisher, has been obtained now for the first time for the publication of the etchings. The works of few etchers have a general and wider and more large popularity than those of Mr. Haig during the last thirty years. During this time the noblest examples of work in England, France, Italy and Spain have formed the subjects of his work. The edition of these etchings is strictly limited, and the publishers have Mr. Haig's authority in stating that after these are exhausted there will be no further reproductions of his etchings. They will also publish shortly a novel by Basil Lubbock, the author of that famous sea book, "Round the Horn Before the Mast." Mr. Lubbock's book was recognized as one of the few real books of sea life, and has gone into a number of editions. The new story is called "Jack Derringer," and is a fine, vigorous sea story.

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY have in press a book of pictures selected from more than 4000 illustrations of American houses. The work is entitled "American Country Homes and Their Gardens," and is edited by John Cordis Baker, with an introduction by Donn Barber. It consists of a collection of 450 illustrations of houses, gardens and interiors, designed by the foremost American architects. Many of the handsomest estates in the country are represented by numerous half-tone engravings, and there is also a large number of smaller attractive country-places selected from all parts of the United States. They are adding several new volumes by C. H. Forbes-Lindsay to their Photogravure Illustrated Series, in which the same writer's "India: Past and Present" appeared a few years ago. Mr. Forbes-Lindsay has now turned his attention to the distant American territories and has produced two new books: "The Philippines Under Spanish and American Rules" and "America's Insular Possessions." The first gives an interesting account of the history and development of our Asiatic islands since their discovery. The second work takes up the Philippines, Porto Rico, Hawaii and Guam; including Panama, Cuba, Hayti and Jamaica. Both these books will be adequately lavishly illustrated. They also announce two new novels for this season, "Sim Greene," a story of the "Great Whiskey Insurrection," by Richard T. Wiley, an adventurous romance of Western Pennsylvania at the beginning of the nineteenth century, when the people rose against the government's enforcement of the excise tax on whiskey; and "Deacon Babbitt," a tale of fact and fiction, by Edgar G. Blankman, being the story of a young Dutchman who becomes separated from his family in Holland by the bursting of the dykes and is picked up by Norwegian fishermen, with whom he lives for several years, and whose longing to seek his parents takes him back to Holland and thence to America, where he finds them in the State of New York.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplaced advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

 In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

 Write your wants plainly and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

READY APRIL 20

New enlarged edition of the recent re-issue of

"GROUND ARMS!"

("Die Waffen Nieder!")

A Romance of European War by the Baroness Von Suttner

New Type, Larger Size, Decorated Cover

$1.25

The first edition (published in February) was promptly exhausted, and the demand has been so general that a more permanent edition seems necessary.

The wide publicity given the Baroness von Suttner's "Die Waffen Nieder!" which won the Nobel Peace Prize for 1905 ($40,000), has created an immediate desire to read the book which is supposed to have exerted the greatest influence in bringing about the "Hague Tribunal."

EXTRA DRY

*Being Further Adventures of
The Water Wagon*

By BERT LESTON TAYLOR and W. C. GIBSON

AUTHORS OF

THE LOG OF THE WATER WAGON

Readers of "The Log of the Water Wagon" will remember that the passengers of the good ship Lithia met shipwreck in a fearful dust storm. "Extra Dry" narrates their further privations after they were cast away on the Isle of Tantalus, and their rescue after a week of fearful suffering. In addition to the tongue warping narrative the book is interspersed with foolish and fantastic features and acrobatic feats of fancy calculated to make the reader sit up and take notice.

Periodicals and Book Trade Helps

ISSUED FROM

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY OFFICE

The Publishers' Weekly

Recognized as the representative of the publishing and bookselling interests in the United States. Contains full weekly record of American publications, with monthly indexes, cumulated quarterly, news of interest concerning the book trade, lists of "Books Wanted," (an advertising feature which each subscriber can use without charge to the extent of 100 lines per year,) etc., etc. Subscription, $3.00 a year; to foreign countries, $4.00 a year.

The American Catalog, 1900-1905

Vol. I contains a five-year cumulation, Jan. 1, 1900-Jan. 1, 1905, giving in one alphabet, by author, title and subject, information of the books issued during the years covered by this period. It also contains a directory of over 3800 publishers, with street addresses. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50.

Vol. II or Supplementary volume gives the full-title entries with annotations printed in the Weekly Record of The Publishers' Weekly, cumulated into an alphabet for each year, i.e., into five alphabets 1900, 01, 02, 03, 04. This is planned to answer the demand of such libraries, bookdealers, and others as want the full material of The Publishers' Weekly bibliographical system in available shape. 8vo, half morocco, $7.50. The set of two, $12.

Of the previous series of THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE, quarto size, the earlier volumes are out of print. We have remaining a few copies of the volumes 1890-95 and 1895-1900, bound in half morocco, $15.00 each.

The Annual American Catalog, 1905

Contains in one alphabet a record of all books published that year, under author, title, subject and series entries; also under author's name an alphabetical list of the same titles with descriptive annotations from The Publishers' Weekly, etc. 8vo, cloth, $3.00.

The Publishers' Trade List Annual

Contains the latest catalogues of upward of 200 American publishers, contributed by themselves and arranged alphabetically by the firm-names, with smaller lists at the end of the volume. Indispensable to every one who has any interest in the sale or purchase of books. Large 8vo, cloth, $2.00.

Indexes to the Publishers' Trade List Annual. The original volume contains an index, by author, title and subject catchword to the lists of the 246 publishers represented in THE TRADE LIST ANNUAL for 1902. This, with The Supplementary Indexes for 1903-1904, in two alphabets (1589 8vo pages, double column, nonpareil type), can be had in cloth, with thumb indexes, price $7.00. (Only a few copies remain.)

The Supplementary Index, 1903-1904, 500 pages, 8vo, cloth, with thumb index, $3.00. The alphabet in this volume is supplementary to the original Index of 1902.

The American Educational Catalogue

Contains a price-list of the text-books in use in the United States, arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject. (Published annually.) 8vo, leatherette, 50 cents.

The Library Journal

Official Organ of the American Library Association. Chiefly devoted to library economy and bibliography. Established in 1876. Published monthly. Subscription $4.00 a year, postpaid; single numbers, 35 cents. Price to Europe or other countries in the Union, 16s. a year; single numbers, 1s. 6d.

The Library Index to Periodicals and Current Events

Published monthly, with a quarterly cumulation (indexing the periodicals taken in most libraries, large and small). Subscription, $3.00 per year. Single monthly numbers, 25 cents; quarterly numbers, 50 cents each.

The Annual Library Index

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book-Chapters, etc., Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to Dates of Principal Events. Edited, with the co-operation of members of the American Library Association and of The Library Journal staff, by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. (Published annually) 8vo, cloth, $3.50.

English Catalogue of Books (Annual)

Containing a complete list of all the books published in Great Britain and Ireland in the calendar year, with index to subjects. (London, Sampson Low, Marston & Co.) 8vo, cloth, $1.50.

Directory of Publishers

Contains names and addresses of 3876 firms and individuals who issued books in the U. S. from Jan. 1, 1900 to Jan. 1, 1905. (Reprinted from The American Catalog.) 8vo, leatherette, red edges, $1.00.

The Profession of Bookselling

A handbook of practical hints for the apprentice and bookseller. By A. GROWOLD, managing editor of The Publishers' Weekly, author of "A Bookseller's Library," "Three Centuries of English Booktrade Bibliography," etc. Parts 1 and 2. 8vo boards, each $2.00. (Concluding part in preparation.)

Publications of Societies

A provisional list of the publications of American scientific, literary and other societies, from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Schedules nearly 1,000 societies issuing publications, and gives title-entries of all their publications, as far as data could be obtained from the societies and from libraries. 8vo, paper, $2.50.

State Publications

A provisional list of the official publications of the several States of the United States from their organization. Compiled under the editorial direction of R. R. BOWKER. Part 1: New England States. Part 2: North Central States. Part 3: Western States and Territories. Part 4. (In preparation) Southern States. (For the complete work $10.)

Panama to Patagonia

By Charles M. Pepper.

"Capitalists, railway men, engineers, merchants and others interested in trying to get a share of the new business expansion in South America will find Mr. Pepper's book invaluable."

Chicago Record-Herald.

"He presents South America in a light which has hitherto been only feebly shed upon it, revealing its rich possibilities as a land of industry."—Washington Star.

The author is a distinguished newspaper man who has traveled extensively, especially in the Latin-American republics, and who is a member of the Permanent Pan-American Railway Committee. His book aims to point out to the American commercial world the enormous advantages coming to this country from South America through the construction of the Panama Canal. Illustrated, $2.50 net.

Annual American Catalog, 1905

The "Annual American Catalog, 1905," contains in one alphabet the monthly lists of books recorded in The Publishers' Weekly during 1905, by author, title, subject, and series entries; also, in one (author) alphabet, the full titles, with descriptive annotations from the "Weekly Record" of The Publishers' Weekly from January 1st to December 31st, 1905. Besides these lists the volume, which is practically the first supplement to the "American Catalog" for the five years ending December 31, 1904, contains a full directory of publishers issuing books during 1905, statistics, etc.

The very latest catalog is often the one most frequently consulted by the bookseller, hence the pronounced utility and value of this bibliography.

Octavo, containing over 700 pages, substantially bound in cloth. Price, $3.00 net. (Postage 35 cents.)

The edition is printed from type and limited.

The English Catalogue, 1905

The "English Catalogue of Books for 1905," for which we have the American sale. 8vo, may be had in cloth binding, $1.50 net. (Postage 13 cents.)

The two catalogs—American and English—are this year sold separately, not bound together in one volume.

The Annual Library Index, 1905

Including Periodicals, American and English; Essays, Book Chapters, etc., with Author-Index, Bibliographies, Necrology and Index to dates of Principal Events. Edited by W. I. FLETCHER and H. E. HAINES. 8vo, cloth binding, $3.50.

A Useful Work of Reference for Bookseller, Librarian, and the General Reader

THE ANNUAL LIBRARY INDEX contains: (1) The Index to Periodical literature for the year 1905, making the fourth annual supplement to "Poole's Index to Periodical Literature," 1897-1902; (2) An index to essays and book-chapters in composite books of 1905, making the fifth annual supplement to the new edition of Fletcher's "A. L. A. Index to General Literature," published in 1901; (3) An author index, both to periodical articles and to book-chapters; (4) A list of bibliographies issued in 1905; (5) A necrology of authors for 1905, extremely useful to catalogers; (6) An index of dates of events in 1905, furnishing a useful guide to the daily press.
